Spider Bed is finished
June 2017

Yes, I have finished and delivered the Spider Bed to the home on Lake Winnepesaukee. They are very pleased. Me, too.

Here are some dates to keep in mind.

- the Gallery at Somes Sound, Mount Desert Island, Maine the month of July with a reception July 1.
- An afternoon event at the Moffatt Ladd House in Portsmouth, Saturday July 22,
- and the Furniture Masters Gala September 21 to the finale on October 1.

This, by the way, is a studio shot. The room where it will live is more Adirondack style.

Focusing on the Headboard

To the left is the gate to the property with two stone pillars, then a Guesthouse nestled in the woods, next the stairs leading from the waterfront to the main house with ancient rhododendrons and a large tree with four trunks, having a barbecue, and the Chagall inspired couple over the roof-line of the house. The right panel shows a birthday party, and a gorgeous water tower. All this with a few spider webs for decoration.

Focusing on the Foot board

The left panel of the foot board tells the story of how Andrew and his three children one day spied a huge wharf spider under the boathouse, and a duck also spied it and ate it up. The right panel how Andrew and his sister would portage a canoe over a beaver dam to go canoeing in the lake behind it.

Well, I am very excited about this project, also very glad to have finished.
I have since made a very sweet kitchen table for a couple who wanted a more congenial layout, and am working on another giraffe lamp for the upcoming show at the Gallery at Somes Sound in July. Rather than dilute the focus of this letter, I'll send you photos of that in the next one.
